Seasonal Greetings! Nollaig Chridheil!

Merry Christmas and a happy New Year to you and yours from the Equalities and Community Justice teams.

For some, there will be colleagues, partners and communities who will continue working through the festive period in their various roles to serve Aberdeen. A special thanks goes out to all those who play a vital part in keeping the city running.

Whether you're on duty or getting a welcome break, very best wishes to all.

ABERDEEN VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN PARTNERSHIP

16 Days of Action

An international campaign which calls for the elimination of violence against women and children took place from November 25 (International Day for the elimination of Violence against Women) through to December 10 (International Human Rights Day) with the aim of highlighting the connection between human rights and domestic violence.

This was supported by highlighting the issue via a social media campaign and several online events – this year Aberdeen’s Violence Against Women Partnership have had to rethink how to raise awareness of the 16 Days of Action campaign.

Members of the public were given the opportunity to attend a virtual Q&A session on 10th December to find out more about domestic abuse and coercive control. Attendees had the opportunity to ask questions to representatives of domestic abuse charities, Police Scotland and other members of Aberdeen’s Violence Against Women Partnership. The session was well received by those who attended, and the questions raised will help to inform future awareness-raising undertaken by the Partnership.

To highlight the start of the campaign, the front of Marischal College was lit orange on 25th November as part of a worldwide campaign to Orange the World and spread the word about gender violence.

The campaign is about increasing women’s safety, highlighting the nature and prevalence of violence against women, raising awareness of violence against women as a human rights issue, showing solidarity among women around the world, promoting women’s leadership, lobbying government, and strengthening local work to tackle violence against women.

The Coronavirus pandemic has negatively affected all aspects of life and, for survivors of domestic abuse, which is a pattern of persistent and controlling behaviour by a partner or ex-partner, it has resulted in increased risks of harm and has made seeking help more difficult.

Increased isolation can create an escalation in abuse, where those who are living with an abusive partner, may be less able to ask for help. Fewer visitors to the household mean that evidence of physical abuse can go unnoticed.

Violence against women includes but is not limited to physical, sexual and psychological violence occurring in the family, general community or in institutions, sexual harassment and intimidation at work and in the public sphere, sexual exploitation, dowry-related violence, female genital mutilation, forced and child marriages, and honour crimes. These different forms of violence against women have their roots in gender inequality and are therefore understood as gender-based violence.

Lucy McNicol, coordinator of Aberdeen's Violence Against Women Partnership, said: "The message throughout lockdown to 'stay at home' has not meant safe at home for those experiencing domestic abuse. If you are required to self-isolate or quarantine, it does not mean you cannot seek support and domestic abuse services are still available to help you think through your safety options and provide emotional support. You can access support by calling a national helpline or accessing support online. Local support services are also still open and are adapting the way they work to ensure you can still get the help you need."

Unpaid Work in Action

Because of the restrictions relating to the pandemic Aberdeen's Unpaid Work Service (Community Service) has had to think differently about how to manage people to undertake their Unpaid Work hours. One of the challenges is that we can no longer transport people to work sites, so people have been asked to meet at specific sites to do their unpaid work.

People are reporting daily to Stewart Park to carry out a range of general ground maintenance tasks from flower bed preparation to clearing leaves from the park & children's playpark.

Some of the teams in Stewart park have been doing area cleaning (litter picks) in the local areas surrounding the park - and the walking is good exercise for everyone. The Task supervisor then drives round and picks up any bags later if no bin has been located at the time.

There is also a team working in the area of Nelson Street on the small park next to the fire station, and also the graveyard at Mounthooly, doing clean-up work and ground maintenance. Those on Unpaid Work report to meet the Task Supervisor who will have a van with any tools required - the van doubles up as a makeshift welfare van with a flask for a hot drink & other PPE provisions. The challenges of the winter weather will impact on the ability of the service to undertake outdoor work, but every effort will be made to undertake outdoor tasks and enable people to complete their Orders.

Willowdale indoor unpaid work has the workshop and craft up and running again, with reduced numbers (due to social distancing requirements). They are working on a range of projects involving outdoor benches, play shelters and other playground equipment.

This particular project is for the nursery at Kittybrewster School as they are trying to have the children outside as much as possible. The service is continuing to collect any unwanted or damaged furniture and upcycle it – this is then donated to third sector agencies or to anyone requiring such items within the social work environment. More donations of furniture or items that require some repair are welcome for this ongoing project - please contact camuir@aberdeencity.gov.uk

A painting and decorating project has recently started in a community centre. This is in the early stages, and there is still a lot of work required, but already the place is looking more welcoming for the service users of this facility.

The Service's fleet is being used in supporting the ever growing need from the foodbank CFINE to deliver emergency food parcels throughout the lock down; the service has delivered to date thousands of food parcels, and that has included collecting & delivering basic lunch meals from Social Bite Aberdeen. A lot of the recipients were people in isolation from C-19.

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year (from everyone at the FCHH at HMP Grampian)

Christmas is coming to the Hub!!!!

COVID 19 will not ruin our Christmas celebrations this year. We only had to change the ways around it slightly to keep everyone safe! The Family Centre and Help Hub has worked with Santa to arrange gifts for kids. We have also prepared Christmas eve boxes to give away.

From Monday, 7th December, families can either come and collect gifts (if they are visiting) or will have them delivered
